

Horses of the Great War

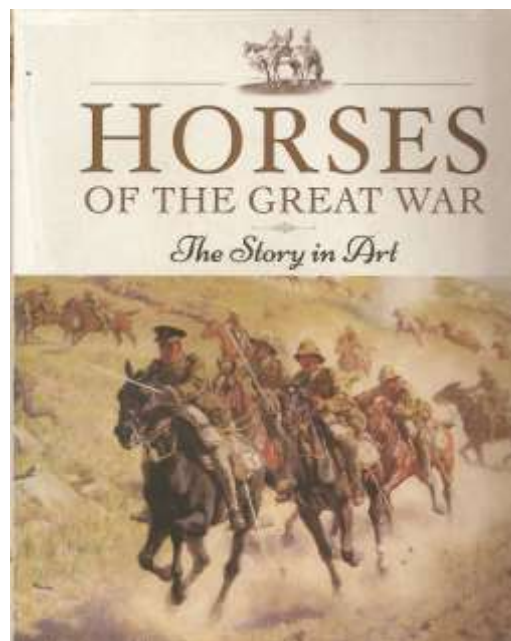

Wagoner Lecture by John Fairley

20th October 7.15 for 7.30.
in the Sledmere House Library
By courtesy of Sir Tatton Sykes Bt.

We are delighted that John Fairley will be giving this year's Wagoner Lecture on October 20th in the Library at Sledmere. His talk will explore the story of horses of the Great War.

John Fairley is the author of a number of internationally published books on equestrian art, including The Art of the Horse, Racing in Art and Great Racehorses in Art. He was also joint author of the Great War book the Monocled Mutineer which became a celebrated BBC television series. He is a noted documentary and sports television producer and was managing director of Yorkshire Television.

Born in Liverpool within sight of the Grand National Course, he served as an RNVR officer aboard the aircraft carrier HMS Albion. A scholar of Queen's College Oxford he is married with three daughters and lives in Malton. His most recent book is Horses of the Great War The story in Art published by Pen and Sword books.

Tickets £10 includes refreshments and there is a cash bar
Tickets from Sarah Flather 01377236637 or email
info@sledmerehouse.com

